A HISTORY OF THE BODENHORN FAMILY
DATA GATHERED AND COMPILED BY THOMAS BODENHORN Assisted By

Edward E. DeWitt, Harvey Bodenhorn, Tecumseh Kilgore and Others.

That injunction of Sacred Writ to "Know thyself" has ever been a natural desire of the human family. Who were our forefathers? From whence did they hail? What kind of people were they? What were their general characteristics? Such thoughts as these have come to our minds, and have prompted us to make some investigation into the history of our ancestry that we might know, at least in part, just what kind of mortals, we, as the Bodenhorn family, are like.

As we study our history we do not find anything that is strikingly different from humanity in general; yet there are those qualities and virtues apparent, that are distinctively characteristic of the Bodenhorn people. Just what we are now, and may hope to achieve and be in the future as a family of people, can best be seen in the light of the past. Believing this, we turn our eyes backward nearly two centuries and find there was at least one or more families living in Lebanon County in the State of Pennsylvania by the name of Bodenhorn. (Heinrich Bodenhorn came from Germany.)

In the year 1767, a child was born in one of these homes who was christened Henry Bodenhorn. From which time forward we must date our family history. We are told that in early life the said Henry Bodenhorn learned the trade of a weaver, which he followed throughout the remainder of his life. By plying himself to his trade he was enabled to provide the necessities of life for his wife and a large family of children who were as follows: John, Jacob, Henry, David, Daniel, George, Elizabeth, Mary, Sarah and one who died in infancy. Henry Bodenhorn lived to a ripe old age, spending his entire lifetime in the State of his nativity. It is said of him that he was a man of powerful physique, well built and muscular. He was very active in religious affairs and was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

Next in line of succession of the family history is David Bodenhorn, the fourth son of the above named subject.

David Bodenhorn.

David Bodenhorn was born in Lebanon County, Pennsylvania, and was there reared to manhood. In early life he was a day laborer and was greatly hampered by poverty. In Pennsylvania he married Miss Elizabeth Riem, whose parents were natives of Germany. Possessed with a strong desire to better their financial condition, this sturdy son of the Keystone State, sold his little three acre farm, of which he had come into possession by hard work and frugal economy, for $ 1,300.00. He with his young wife and a growing family, bade adieu to the hills of Pennsylvania and turned their faces Westward.

On the tenth of April, 1854, they arrived in the woods of Indiana and first settled in New Columbia, Adams Township, Madison County. On July of the same year they removed to Stony Creek Township, Madison County, where he purchased 200 acres of wholly unimproved land. Upon this heavily timbered tract of land he built a rude log structure for a dwelling, and then, with the assistance of his family, (for they all worked) set themselves to the tremendous task of felling the timber, clearing and ditching the land, and turning a wilderness and swamp into what is now one of the best farms in the State of Indiana. Gradually they reaped the reward of their self-denying labors having at the time of his death, come into possession of 407 acres of Madison County's most fertile soil.

In politics, David Bodenhorn was a Democrat, but not partisan in his preferences. Religiously, he lived a life upright and above reproach, which spoke louder than words, and proved the sincerity of his religious belief. He was a devoted and faithful member of the Presbyterian Church. Physically he was portly in stature, and, like his father, a man of unusual strength and endurance. In habits, temperate in all things, except work, to which he was an addicted slave. As to social intercourse with others, he was kind and considerate to all. He came to the end of his very useful life in his 69th year, while, living on the old home farm which he purchased when he came to Indiana located near Lapel on the Pendleton and Lapel Pike. Justice cannot be given the history of David Bodenhorn without mention of his faithful and devoted wife Elizabeth.

Elizabeth Bodenhorn, like her husband, had those traits of character which so nobly fitted her for pioneer life. She stood constantly at the side of her husband in their labors upon the farm, and it may be truly said of her, that she was a helpmeet indeed. Outliving her husband several years, she made her home with her eldest son, Christian Bodenhorn until the close of her life. At the age of 84 she peacefully departed for her Heavenly Home.

To David and Elizabeth Bodenhorn were born 7 children, namely: Christian, Jacob, Samuel, Frances and Mary Elizabeth.

We will now consider the sons and daughters of our noble grandsires.

Christian Bodenhorn.

The eldest son Christian Bodenhorn, was born on a little farm in Lebanon County Pennsylvania, December 27, 1834. Much of his time while a boy was spent with his father, cutting wood by which means they gained their living, attending school only on days when he could do nothing else; hence his education was of necessity limited. After coming with his parents to Indiana, he worked with his father on the home farm until he was 26 years of age, when, with no other capital than willing hands and a determined purpose he began the battle of life for himself. On December 2, 1858, he united in marriage with Miss Elizabeth Ann, daughter of James Elsten, an old settler of Stony Creek Township. Here was happiness personified with two strong purposeful souls joined together to fight the battles of life. Struggles and hardships came thick and fast, yet the strength of man and womanhood failed them not, and success was crowning their efforts. When "Uncle Chris" (He was best known by that name) was 34 years of age, he had the misfortune to have his leg badly crushed under a rolling log, the wounds from which never entirely healed, and was ever after a source of much pain. Notwithstanding this serious mishap, Uncle Chris never lost the Bodenhorn grit, but continued to push his farming interest with unabated zeal. In June of the year 1882, he entered the Merchantile business in the village of Fishersburg in partnership with George Dunham; afterwards he traded for Mr. Dunham's interest in the business and formed a partnership with his son Alfred, under the name of C. Bodenhorn & Son. Here they continued in business for several years, many years in fact, enjoying the patronage of a large circle of friends throughout the surrounding country.

Christian Bodenhorn was a man of integrity and deep piety, always taking his place on the side of right and for many years was a Member of the Methodist Episcopal Church; when this Church was moved to Lapel he, with his wife, placed his membership in the Wesleyan Methodist Church which was then located in Fishersburg. To Christian and Elizabeth Bodenhorn were born four sons, namely: Alfred, John Henry Edward O. and David F. who died in early childhood, in 1879, at the age of 2 years, 5 months and 19 days. Death came to Christian Bodenhorn and he passed to his Eternal reward and Heavenly Home on March 24, 1916, at the ripe old age of 81 years, 2 months and 17 days.

Elizabeth Ann Bodenhorn.

"Aunt Lizzie" (Everybody called her by that name) the good wife of Christian Bodenhorn stood nobly with her husband all through their married life; shoulder to shoulder, hand in hand, and heart to heart in everything, ever kind, ever true. A good true wife, mother, friend and Christian Jacob Bodenhorn.

Jacob Bodenhorn was born in Lebanon County, Pennsylvania, March 14, 1848. When but a lad, six years of age, he came to Indiana with his father where he attended the Township school at "Boot-Jack." When a young man he took great delight in attending the old fashioned country spelling matches and few there were who could "spell him down." Jacob Bodenhorn met life with handicaps, never being strong physically as were his brothers, often being under the Doctor's care. He was united in marriage with Miss Mary E. Main, a daughter of Adam Main who lived near Fortville, Indiana. (Born in Myersville, Frederick County, Maryland, June 20, 1853) Being reared on a farm, Jacob naturally followed the pursuit of farming, purchasing an eighty acre farm about one and one half miles South of Lapel, it being nearly all timber land. Nothing daunted, he and his young wife resolutely applied themselves to the task of clearing, fencing, and ditching the land, thus making for themselves a home. In this they succeeded notwithstanding the handicaps involved. When near 30 years of age he was aroused to his need of salvation while attending a revival meeting at the old Methodist Episcopal Church at Fishersburg, Indiana; pardoning grace came to his soul while at home, from which time until death, he lived a devoted Christian life. Many things about our father has the writer (Thomas Bodenhorn) forgotten, but never can we forget the scenes of family worship, when he would sing an hymn, read from the Scriptures and then fervently petition the Throne of Grace in prayer, the benediction of which has followed his family all through life. He was a respected citizen in the community in which he lived, always lending a helping hand to his neighbors and friends. When in his 37th year he sustained injuries which finally resulted in his death two years later, thus leaving a wife, six sons and one daughter, namely: Charles M., William L., J. Walter, Thomas M., Elmer F., Raymond C. and Alice Gertrude.

Samuel Bodenhorn.

Samuel Bodenhorn, who was the third son of David Bodenhorn, was born in Lebanon, Pennsylvania, September 11, 1851. He, like his brothers, did not have a favorable chance for an education, but it may be said of him that he was well versed in the school of hard work and experience. His very congenial nature and ability to adapt himself made him a host of friends.

When a young man he was united in marriage to Miss Mary E. Coverdale and to them were born four children, namely: George W., Lavina E., Harvey Newton, and a daughter who died in infancy. Most of his life was spent on the farm which, by persevering labor, he developed into a veritable garden spot. After the death of his good wife, and his children had grown to manhood and womanhood, and had established homes for themselves, he moved from the farm and became a resident of Lapel. Here he built a nice residence and was united in marriage to Miss Mary Ann Snell which indeed proved to be a very happy union. (It is said that when "Uncle Sam" moved to Lapel, was married the second time, built his new home, that he really started life anew and that thereafter he never slept even for one night at his old farm home. He would go out to the farm to work, spend the time happily with his son Harvey and family, but when evening would come, he preferred to be at his own home in Lapel...E. E. D.) While living in Lapel he did much public work for Stony Creek Township and the Town of Lapel, building many streets and sidewalks. He was also caretaker of Brookside cemetery which position he filled in a very fine way until the close of his life. Uncle Samuel was successful in business and enjoyed the confidence of a large circle of friends. In him they recognized a man whose word was just as good as his bond. In his religious life, he ever sought to be faithful to Christ and to the Church, being a Member of the United Brethren Church od Lapel. He went to his eternal reward after a well rounded life of usefulness, especially to the community in which he spent nearly the entire of his lifetine. On March 23, 1915 Samuel Bodenhorn closed his eyes to Earthly scenes and departed for the Celestial City from whose bourne no traveler returns.

Frances Bodenhorn.

Frances Bodenhorn, daughter of David Bodenhorn, was born in Pennsylvania, November 13, 1838, coming to Indiana with the others of the Bodenhorn family when a young lady sixteen years of age. When coming to womanhood, she was united in marriage to Joshua Foust, a young man from Pennsylvania. Soon after their marriage they purchased a farm about three and one half miles South of Lapel and made it their home for the remainder of their lives. "Aunt Frances" was always surrounded with many cares being the mother of 12 children, namely: Elizabeth, Henry, Andrew, Anna, Emma, Jesse, Samuel, George, Franklin, Lydia, Amos and Harvey. While "Aunt Frances" was a busy woman, yet she was never too busy as to not enjoy having her relatives and friends come to their hospitable home and visit with them. Happy are the memories of our visitations to their old fashioned country home. She, with her husband, were members of the Church of the Brethren, and remained so until the close of their lives, she passing away to her Eternal Home on April 10, 1899, being but little past 50 years of age.

Mary Ann Bodenhorn.

Mary Ann Bodenhorn was born in Lebanon, Pennsylvania, September 7, 1842, and while yet a young girl, came to Indiana with her parents. She grew to womanhood and gave her hand and heart to James Andrew DeWitt in marriage. The young Mr. DeWitt was working as a farm hand for her father David Bodenhorn, and seeing her desirable qualities, he sought her for a wife and their marriage proved to be a very happy union. Their habits of thrift and economy soon put them in position to buy a farm and pursue their chosen calling in life. Their home was gladdened with the coming of three sons and two daughters, namely; Lydia Frances, Anna Elizabeth, Henry Allen, John Wesley and Edward Emery. Of "Aunt Mary" it may be truly said, "she was kindness personified." If a neighbor or a friend were sick, or in need, she was there to minister to their need. She was a devoted wife and mother, most of her life being spent caring for her home. She was a life long Member of the Methodist Episcopal Church which for many years was located at Fishersburg and then with the building of the new Methodist Church at Lapel, was transferred there. "Aunt Mary" testified by word and deed to the fact that she was a follower of Jesus Christ. Our visits, over the fields, out through the woods, out through the clearing where the old gray snag stood, over to our Aunt Mary's, yet remains in our memory as some of the sweetest scenes of childhood. She came to her end of days at a ripe old age, as a full shock of corn in its season. This life closed to earthly scenes on February 12, 1920. (Editors Note.-These memories written by Thomas Bodenhorn. E. E. D)

NOTE The following story has been recited many times and the main details were gathered by Harvey N. Bodenhorn and Tecumseh Kilgore on Monday, May 4, 1942. State records on file at Indianapolis were examined and also living witnesses were interviewed, including one Charles Elsten of Lapel, Ind., who testified that he had heard "Uncle Chris" tell the "Clover Seed Story" many times.

The following was copied by Harvey N. Bodenhor and Tecumseh Kilgore from a book which is on file in the Library at Indianapolis, Indiana. Henry Bodenhor was the father of ten children - John, Jacob, Henry, DAVID, Daniel, George, Elizabeth, Mary, Sarah and one name not on record.

David Bodenhor, with his family, came to Indiana and settled at New Columbus, Adams Township, Madison County, April 10, 1854. July 27, 1854, they came to Stony Creek Township, where he purchased 200 acres of wholly unimproved land. He built a rude log house for a residence. At his death, March 21, 1878, he owned 400 acres of land. He was a Democrat and a Presbyterian. He was not a partisan in politicks and his upright life proved far better than words the sincerity of his religious life.

The "Clover Seed Story" as told by Charles Elsten
David Bodenhor bought a great deal of clover seed in the field and cut and threshed it later An interesting story is told in connection with this.--One time Mr. Bodenhor went to Noblesville to arrainge for the sale of some clover seed. This seed was scarce that year and the price was high, being $ 18.00 per bushel. He called on a dealer who handled seed. This dealer told him what he would pay and said that he would take all that he had. In a few days Mr. Bodenhor pulled up before the dealers place with two wagons piled high with clover seed, each drawn by a 4 horse team. There was not money enough in Noblesville to pay for the seed and a dealer went to Indianapolis to get money to pay for it.(Thus endeth a good story--

(The said Bodenhor and Kilgore found at the Indianapolis Library the following additional interesting facts)

The first road in Stoney Creek Township, Madison County, Indiana, ran from Strawtown through Fishersburg to Pendleton. This road ran past the residence of David Bodenhor. It was opened in 1832. The first wagon was driven over this road in the Fall of that year. This road was made into a gravel turnpike toll road in 1865. The first 4 miles from Pendleton at a cost of $ 3,000.00 per mile. The remainder of the road cost $ 2,000.00 per mile. The first directors were J. A. Taylor, David Conrad, Harvey Craven, and David Bodenhor. The following men were the heaviest taxpayers in Stony Creek Township for the year 1873. -- Isaac Milburn,-- $ 83.39. Daniel McClintock $ 73.10. Samuel Busby $ 71.49 and David Bodenhor $ 69.84.

(Edward E. DeWitt, the last survivor of the Mary Bodenhor DeWitt family, as of May 22, 1942, well remembers hearing his father James A. DeWitt and Samuel Bodenhor discuss the following incident) James and Mary DeWitt were considering buying the farm, which later became known as "the old James A. DeWitt homestead" and the first consideration was the possibility of locating a good water well that would not be just a mere "surface water well. David Bodenhor was recognized throughout the community as a "water witch" that is, one who could locate a hidden stream of water by using a forked peach limb; consequently he was called upon the farm for consultation and investigation. With the aid of the forked peach limb Mr. Bodenhor quickly located the spot where he said plenty of good, pure water would be found and marked the spot with a rock. Later, after the farm was bought, Jacob Bodenhor and helpers, with pick and shovel proceeded to dig at the exact spot indicated and were rewarded by striking a flowing stream of water. This well was digged in 1881, walled with large rock and is still furnishing pure, cold water for the thirsty pilgrim.

(Note.- I can remember that sometimes my mother, the daughter of the said David Bodenhor, would employ the service of a Peach-sprout, but not to locate a spot for the digging of a water well-- and the corresponding polyesters were obtained. The structures of the polymers are shown in Scheme 1. The polymerization was carried out by the melt polycondensation method. The polymerization conditions are summarized in Table 1. The viscosity of the polymer solution in CHCl_3 at 30 °C was measured at a polymer concentration of 0.2 g/dL. The infrared spectra of the polymers were measured with a Nicolet FT-IR spectrometer. The melting temperature (T_m) and glass-transition temperature (T_g) of the polymers were determined by DSC measurements with a TA 2100 instrument. The thermal stability of the polymers was evaluated by TGA measurements with a TA 2100 instrument. The mechanical properties of the polymers were measured with an Instron 5544 instrument.

The ^1H -NMR spectra of the polymers were measured with a Varian VNMRA 300 instrument. The chemical shifts (δ) were measured relative to tetramethylsilane as the reference. The IR spectra of the polymers were measured with a Nicolet FT-IR spectrometer. The T_g and T_m of the polymers were determined by DSC measurements with a TA 2100 instrument. The thermal stability of the polymers was evaluated by TGA measurements with a TA 2100 instrument. The mechanical properties of the polymers were measured with an Instron 5544 instrument.

The ^1H -NMR spectra of the polymers were measured with a Varian VNMRA 300 instrument. The chemical shifts (δ) were measured relative to tetramethylsilane as the reference. REVIEW OF 2000

the world's political and economic system and its institutions, and the role of the United States in the world.

The year 2000 was a year of significant changes in the world, and it was also a year of significant challenges.

The most significant change was the end of the Cold War, which brought about a new era of international relations.

The second most significant change was the rise of China as a major power in the world, and the third was the continued growth of the United States as a global leader.

These changes have had a profound impact on the world, and they will continue to do so for many years to come. The world is changing, and it is up to us to adapt to these changes and to work together to create a better future for all.

the first time in history that the world's population has reached 6 billion. This is a momentous occasion, and it is important that we take advantage of the opportunity to reflect on the challenges and opportunities that lie ahead.

The world is facing many challenges, including climate change, poverty, inequality, and conflict. We must work together to address these challenges and ensure that everyone has access to basic necessities like food, water, and healthcare.

At the same time, there are also many opportunities for progress. We can work towards a more sustainable future by transitioning to renewable energy sources and reducing our impact on the environment. We can also work towards greater equality and inclusion, ensuring that everyone has the opportunity to succeed regardless of their background or circumstances.

As we look to the future, it is important to remember that we are all interconnected. Our actions have consequences not just for ourselves, but for the world around us. By working together and prioritizing the well-being of all, we can create a better future for everyone.

Let us take this moment to reflect on the challenges and opportunities ahead, and to commit to working together to build a better world for all. Together, we can make a difference.

On this special day, let us also take a moment to appreciate the beauty of the world around us. Whether it's a sunset over the ocean, a sunrise over the mountains, or a simple walk through a park, there is always something to be grateful for in this wonderful world we live in.

So let us all take a deep breath, reflect on the challenges and opportunities ahead, and work together to build a better world for all. Together, we can make a difference.

IDEAS OF THE FEDERAL TAX LAW
IN THE PRACTICE OF TAXATION

By JAMES E. COOPER, JR.
Associate Professor of Law
University of Virginia School of Law

With a Foreword by WILLIAM H. DAVIS, JR., Esq.

A practical approach to the ideas of the Federal Tax Law in the practice of taxation

James E. Cooper, Jr. has written a book that will be of great value to all who practice in the field of taxation.

The author has selected the most important and interesting aspects of the Federal Tax Law and has presented them in a clear, concise, and practical manner.

The book is divided into three main parts: Part I covers the basic principles of taxation; Part II covers the application of these principles to specific situations; and Part III covers the practical aspects of taxation.

The book is intended for use by law students, lawyers, accountants, and other professionals in the field of taxation.

The book is also intended for use by tax practitioners, including tax lawyers, tax accountants, and tax auditors.

(Editors Note.--There is in possession of the Jacob Bodenhor descendants, a priceless Treasure, The Birth and Baptismal Certificate of their father Jacob Bodenhor, son of David Bodenhor.
Tecumseh Kilgore has carefully examined the Certificate, had a Book-binder place a piece of book muslin on the back of it, written the following story, and translated the original German text into English.-E. E. DeWitt)

This Birth and Baptismal Certificate of Jacob Bodenhor, nearly one hundred years old, is an object of great interest even outside its connection with the early members of the Bodenhor family. Its state of preservation is remarkable. In spite of its great age it is almost perfect. This shows one trait of the Bodenhorns--They take care of things. The paper is becoming brittle with age but with the new cloth backing and with the same good care it has had in the past it will last another hundred years easily.

This certificate is a beautiful and very interesting example of early American wood-cuts and color printing. It took three sets of cuts to print this certificate - one with the high places that touched the paper where the black parts appear, one with the high places where the yellow appears, and one with the high places where red appears. These plates were cut out of blocks of wood with hand tools. The paper had to be put through the old hand press three times - once for the printed matter and black part of the cuts, once for the yellow and once for the red. No man can put the same sheet of paper on a printing press by hand in exactly the same position three different times. It was not done in this case. While an ordinary inspection shows no defects and while it is really a fine job of printing, a close inspection will show that the sheets of paper were not exactly placed for the second and third printing. It shows up plainly on the cherries, on the leaves, and on the medallions in the border. After all, when we consider the tools with which they had to work, it is a beautiful job.

The sentiments expressed in the poems are simple but lofty. The one at the top of the page emphasizes the shortness and the uncertainty of life. Just as soon as we are born we begin to die. No one knows when death will come so it behooves us to have our house always in order; yet too much cock sureness about our salvation may result in great disappointment even eternal death

The poem at the bottom of the page emphasizes the importance of baptism and the union with God's people - the joy it brings on earth and the great rewards in heaven.

The certificate itself entirely outside the facts it expresses is most interesting. One can almost see the man who filled it out. In all probability he was the minister who baptized the child. This might not have been the case as the Certificate could have been purchased and filled out later but most likely it was not. You may be sure that whoever filled it out was quite a character as shown by his writing. He spelled absolutely by ear and without any regard for the rules laid down in books. He was not even consistent in his own spelling. For instance the first time he had occasion to write the word "son" he spelled it "sohn." This is the standard German spelling and is written in the standard German script. Just a few words further on when he had occasion to use the same word he spells it "son." This is written in the standard German script but is the standard English spelling. Germans pronounce the letter "d" at the end of a syllable as if it were a "t". This man writes it a "t" as in "David" and "Bodenhorn".

Everybody knows how the maiden name of Mrs. David Bodenhorn was pronounced but you will find all kinds of spelling of it - Riem, Rehm, Riem, Riehm, and so on. This man spelled it in the simplest German way according to ear. He used an English "r" for which he can't be blamed much for a German "r" was very hard to make. He also used an English "p" in Pennsylvania. A German "p" was hard to make too. He uses a very old German spelling for "March" and "July". Modern Germans spell them "Marz" and "Juli". It is very interesting to note this spelling of "Pennsylvania" - "pensalvani". That is just exactly like a Pennsylvania German would have pronounced it. In all his peculiar spelling he got it exactly right according to "ear". It is just a little hard to decide what he intended to make the third letter in the word "David." It does not look much like any German letter and neither does it resemble any English letter very much. It might be an English "w" or "v". It is all out of proportion in height when compared with the other letters and I think he noticed this himself as there is evidence that he tried to fix it up a little. Any how we all know what the word was. It is quite interesting to study his own name. He spells his first name "tamas". Any German would pronounce that as if it were spelled "tonis" or as we pronounce "Thomas." He wrote his name "tamis lennert". If he has a great grandson with exactly the same name he had this grandson probably writes his name "Thomas Leonard". Styles in names change just as they do in clothing.

POEM ABOVE THE CERTIFICATE

When we are hardly born
It is from the first step of life
Till to the cold grave of the earth,
Only one short measured step.
Ah! with every moment goes our strength back;
And we are with every year
All ripe for the death-bier.

O! who knows in what hour,
For us the last voice awakes:
This God has with his mouth
To no men yet revealed.
Who has his house now in order
Goes with joy out of the world.
Feeling of security on the other hand
Eternal death can call forth.

POEM BELOW CERTIFICATE

I am baptized, I stand in union,
Through my baptism with my God!
So speak I always with happy mouth,
In cross, in sorrow, anguish and need.
I am baptized, which makes me happy,
The joy remains with me always.

I am baptized in thy name,
God Father, Son and Holy Ghost!
I am numbered with thy seed,
The people that thou hast called holy.
O what happiness thereby became mine
Master let me be worthy of this.

I am baptized, even if I die immediately
What harms me the cold grave?
I know my fatherland and inheritance
That I have through a God in Heaven
That at my death is ready for me
The joy of heaven and festal robes.

(Editors Note.-- Early in the project of gathering material for the Bodenhorn History this letter came into the hands of Thomas Bodenhorn. E. E. D.)

Roaring Springs, Pa., Dec. 10, 1929.

Dear Cousin:

How does this sound? My brother writes me that our Great Grandfather "Heinrich Bodenhorn" is buried about $\frac{1}{2}$ or 1 mile from Annville in Lebanon Co. Pennsylvania. He came from Germany His sons were John and George who settled in Lebanon Co. and Jacob, (our Grandfather) Henry, David and Daniel came to Jefferson Co., Pa. David, your Grandfather, instead of staying in Jefferson Co., went on to the State of Indiana. Daniel drowned in Coders Dam near Brookville.

He says he knows nothing of the daughters of Henry (Heinrich) Bodenhorn.

Brother says he does not know when the name was changed or who changed it, but that our Great Grandfather must be one and the same man.

This Oscar Bodenhorn, you have written to is your second cousin, same as I am and Loieses Father and you are second cousins.

Anybody whose name is Bodenhorn or Bottenhorn is of one and the same Heinrich Bodenhorn.

Does this help any?

As Ever

Minnie Bottenhorn Camp.
